Footsteps in the Snow DEBUSSY Footsteps in the Snow

WHAT DO YOU HEAR?

The composer of this piece, Claude Debussy, loved color! He was inspired by visual artists and used colors in his music to give us a musical impression of a scene—in this case, footsteps in the snow. Let's make our own piece of art from listening to the music!

BEFORE YOU WATCH

First, have you ever been in snow? What are some fun things you can do in the snow?

AFTER YOU WATCH

Now let's listen to Buddy play this piece while we think about being in the snow. Answer the questions below to help guide your drawing!

Who do you think left the footsteps? Where were they going?

What does it sound like they are doing in the snow—having fun, taking a walk, or maybe traveling?

Being in the snow can be tiring! How many times does our character stop to rest in the music?

THE CLIBURN

TIME TO DRAW!

Pick an activity for our character—either traveling, resting, or one of the fun activities you listed above—and create your own snowy scene to go along with the music. Use crayons, markers, paints, anything you like!
