Norway is famous for its Viking Age history. Vikings ruled the seas off the northern coast of Europe in an impressive fleet of ships, often built to resemble dragons or other fearsome creatures. Vikings were considered the most daring and skilled sailors of their time. In Norway, they were considered heroes who brought fortune and fame home. But in other parts of Europe, they were feared as raiders, invaders, or conquerers. The most adventurous of the Vikings were also explorers, and credited with being the first Europeans to successfully cross the Atlantic Ocean and reach the shores of North America. Though the Viking Age was over 1,000 years ago, it is still an important part of Norwegian cultural heritage.
